

THE BLOOMSBURY REVIEW—March/April 2008

Pursuing the Dream Bone

MORTON MARCUS

Quale Press, $14.00 paper,

ISBN 978-0-9744503-9-1;

93 Main St, Ste 2, Florence, MA 01062

Morton Marcus' prose poems demonstrate the power of myth and how timeless legends arise from personal experience. The style borders on flash fiction, though poetic tension remains in every sentence and paragraph. His fusion of poetry and prose elevates us toward a new plane of recognition; few poets create tales and fables like these because who they are gets in the way. For Morton Marcus the autobiographical is the mystical, and the text rises above everything.